

APR Supply Co. Coronavirus (COVID-19) Response

Essential to Your Business

APR Supply Co., as an essential business, will continue to remain open and operational to serve all of your HVAC and plumbing needs.

Including but not limited to the following industries are considered essential – this includes YOU – our HVAC & Plumbing Contractors/Dealers.

- Construction
- Home repair/hardware
- Warehousing, storage and distribution

We are also committed to staying ahead of any potential disruptions in product inventory. We are in contact with suppliers inquiring about any and all possible disruptions and making purchasing decisions now, to stay ahead.

Please contact your local APR salesperson for any specific concerns or special product needs that you may have that we do not already know about. If you're not already a web order customer - there is no better time to start! Simply contact your local APR salesperson to get started today!

In addition, we have made the following update to our events and training calendar:

- All customer in person events and training's have been postponed through April 30th. Look for virtual opportunities in the coming days at www.aprsupply.com.
- All manufacturer meetings and internal group gatherings are being conducted virtually until further notice.

Please continue to visit our website for the most up-to-date information using the link below.

Industry Information

APR Supply Co. Website

