

APR Supply Co Donates Equipment to the Pennsylvania Petroleum Association to Support Growing Training Program

September 3, 2021 - LEBANON, PA – APR Supply Co. recently donated a Friedrich Ductless and a Fujitsu Halcyon Ductless System to the PA Petroleum Association’s Middletown location to help support the organization’s ongoing training efforts.

The facility on Eisenhower Boulevard in Middletown, PA boasts Oil Heat, AC, Propane, Electrical, Transportation & Storage, Hazmat Trainings, as well as NATE certifications. “The hands-on training is not only for our contractors and their technicians, but also for individuals looking to gain industry knowledge to enter the trade. While we’re focused on growing our own training program at APR, we are also committed to help other organizations looking to invest in trade education do the same,” said Jeff Thompson, VP Dealer Products at APR Supply Co. Jeff went on to say, “it’s these educational facilities that are going to give people life sustaining jobs after school, as well as support the growing need for workers in the Plumbing and HVAC trade.”

APR attended the PPATEC Ribbon Cutting event on August 26th to help celebrate the renovation of three rooms within the facility that added donated products and systems from various industry partners, including APR. In addition, the facility recently became a privately licensed school that will be adding a 10-week class in January 2022.
