APR Supply Co Editorial Vol. 6- The Vital Role of Maintenance Plans in the HVAC and Plumbing Sectors

Why Maintenance Plans Benefit You and Your Customer and How You Should Structure Them

In the world of HVAC and plumbing, where comfort, convenience, and functionality are paramount, the importance of contractors offering maintenance plans to their customers cannot be overstated. Maintenance plans are more than just an added service; they are a commitment to ensuring the well-being of homes and businesses. In this editorial, we'll explore why these plans are indispensable for both contractors and customers.

Bosch: Heat Pump Incentives Change the Game

One of the nation's largest utilities, ComEd, has set the template for new HVAC rebates. Similar programs are already in the works from coast to coast.

With the 2022 Inflation Reduction Act, the federal government is already offering incentives for specific types of electric-based technology, including heat pumps. The IRA allows states to offer up to $14,000 in rebates for electrified-products (based on income), and consumers can get federal tax credits of up to $2,000 for heat pumps.

Bosch Home Comfort Product Manager Ian McIver sheds light on how incentives are making waves in the heating and cooling industry, all for a greener and more efficient future
